

Proclamation

World Tuberculosis Day

Iqaluit, Nunavut (March 24, 2022) – Each year, March 24 is recognized as World Tuberculosis (TB) Day as part of an official global public health campaign of the World Health Organization to raise awareness, educate, and reduce fear and stigma.

World TB Day is a day to reflect, learn and change: to reflect on the history of TB in Nunavut and how this disease has impacted our lives; to learn more about TB; and to make changes that will help end TB in our communities. It is a day to imagine Nunavut without Tuberculosis.

TB is curable. Know the symptoms of TB and get checked if you have them. Encourage and support others to do the same.

TB is preventable. Protect your family, friends, and community by completing treatment if you have sleeping or active TB.

Look for the signs of TB if you are a health care provider and know that your contributions to the health and wellness of Nunavummiut are valued and appreciated.

Together, we can end TB in Nunavut. It is time.

I, John Main, Minister of Health for the Government of Nunavut, DO HEREBY PROCLAIM, Thursday, March 24, 2022 as "WORLD TUBERCULOSIS DAY" in Nunavut.

Honourable John Main, Minister of Health

Sop J'n"
Abubuktuk

I, Aluki Kotierk, President of Nunavut Tunngavik Inc, DO HEREBY PROCLAIM, Thursday, March 24, 2022 as "WORLD TUBERCULOSIS DAY" in Nunavut.

Aluki Kotierk, President of Nunavut Tunngavik Inc