Courts Update:

What is Department of Justice doing to maintain continuity of court services?

- Court Services has implemented contingency plans to ensure uninterrupted services to Nunavummiut.

- The court registry continues to be open from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday. Any criminal or civil proceeding can be filed directly with the Court Registry either in person, by facsimile at: (867) 975-6550 or by email at:
- For criminal Court matters: Courts.Criminal@govnuca.onmicrosoft.com
- For any Civil Court matters: Courts.Civil@govnuca.onmicrosoft.com
- Access to court records request can also be made in person, by fax or through the civil staff email address.
- The GN is working actively to restore access to its network. Further notifications will be posted on the Nunavut of Justice Website to provide information of the present situation.
- If you have any inquiries, please contact the Court at:
- Civil registry: (867) 975-6102
- Criminal Registry: (867) 975-6101
- Sheriff office: (867) 975- 6103

Community Justice Update:

How can I contact Victim Services for assistance during this time?

- Unfortunately, the 1-866 number normally used for Victim Services is not operational. In the meantime, anyone seeking assistance from Victim Services or looking to make inquiries, can contact or by phone at (867) 222-0045. Once the system is restored, individuals will be able to use our standard 1-866 number.
