Renewal of Shared Directional Statement for Policing

Igaluit, Nunavut (May 30, 2019) – Acting Minister of Justice and Attorney General of Nunavut, David Akeeagok and Chief Superintendent of the RCMP "V" Division, Amanda Jones, today signed the renewed Shared Directional Statement for Policing Services in Nunavut.

"Turaaqtavut highlights the importance of partnerships to advance the needs of Nunavummiut. The renewal of this agreement is our commitment to continue working together to provide effective policing services that promote a healthy and safe society," said Minister Akeeagok.

The 2019-2021 Shared Directional Statement outlines priorities for policing services that have been identified by Nunavummiut, the Government of Nunavut (GN) and the Royal Canadian Mounted Police (RCMP). It highlights four priority areas:

- 1. Promote public trust and confidence with Inuit.
- Promote government accountability in communities.
- 3. Support communities at risk.
- 4. Enhance crime prevention and reduction initiatives in communities.

"I look forward to working in partnership with the GN and various Nunavut organizations to foster the development of healthy communities in Nunavut. The RCMP will continue to strive for efficient, stable and effective policing services for Nunavummiut," said Chief Superintendent Amanda Jones.
